Tourists Galore

Suzanne Reeves

Above: Karen Humphrey and Vicki O'Neill-Gray with some of the new merchandise they have available at the Shire of Lake Grace Visitor Centre.

The Lake Grace Visitor Centre have just released their quarterly report and it is heartwarming to see that visitor numbers are up.

When chatting to visitor's staff harvest information to help them in their quest to provide a best possible experience to those visiting our southern wheatbelt community. Like all good farmers they put them through the drafting race, sorting them into five different categories; local, intrastate, interstate, international and unidentified.

Rushing in the doors are the interstate group of travellers, the many caravans and motorhomes buzzing through our region are keeping staff busy in what was once a quiet time! Even on the coldest day they have plenty of people popping into the Visitor Centre for chats, a shop, directions or recommendations. Opening on the weekends has been so well received and has helped the centre triple last year's statistics.

In the latest quarter international numbers are up, intrastate are steady while locals have been busy with seeding and sport. Known for our crossroads Lake Grace has tended to be those passing through to get to other destinations, however in recent times Lake Grace has become a destination! Great news for our very welcoming little town. These numbers will rise again in this latter part of the year as the wildflowers make themselves known.

- If you've been seeing a truck endlessly doing rounds of the neighbourhood that's just our participants doing the HC and MC training and assessment. Thank you to everyone who made the most of the opportunity. There won't be any more truck driver workshops this year but we'll be back at in 2024 so feel free to register your interest. Be mindful that we have to book Keen's months in advance so we can't just conjure one up.
- We will be having a forklift training and assessment in August. We just need a couple of confirmations before I can set the date. The cost is $700 however it is all done within 1 day. This is a real cost of training as these companies are not subsidised by the government. It's not too late to throw your hat in the ring.
- We do have our Working At Heights and Working in Confined Spaces happening in September; both of these workshop are full at this stage. It doesn't hurt to put your name down though as someone could pull out.
- Do you need to do Auschem (was once called Chemcert) training? Cost is around the $160 mark, TAFE have put up on their website (at a lower cost) without consulting us—they haven't taken into consideration the cost of advertising, venue hire etc. If you would like to register your interest then please let us know or alternatively register through the webiste and we'll sort it out later.
- Everyone please take note of the article on page 5 as this is very important for our seniors in Lake Grace. This could be an opportunity to provide greater support for those who live here and their families. Please come along and listen to what Helen has to say.
- I wasn't rushed off my feet with interest for the Litterpick, having said that I'm not overly surprised with the rather antisocial weather we have been having.
- We have also booked an accredited First Aid workshop with St John for Friday 6th October. This workshop is for youth (16-18) and will come under the banner of Lake Grace Roadwise. We will be looking for funding to cover the costs of this workshop to keep any costs to a minimum (preferably free). Lake Grace Roadwise is keen to give youth the skills and confidence to act if they are involved in or come across an accident. We are more than happy to take expressions of interest.

- Please take note in our change of emails and make the effort to save the main email in your digital address book. Remember if you send to an individual and that person is away your email won't be read so best to send to the main one. # Staying in Place

Earlier this year Pingelly CRC and Pingelly Somerset Alliance hosted a 'Staying in Place Expo', tackling the subject of being able to keep people in their own homes as they age. Sponsored by Mable, InCasa and the Shire of Pingelly it focused on a care package recently started in Pingelly that is managed and staffed locally.

Project Office for Pingelly's 'Staying in Place', Helen Morton, is undertaking a roadtrip on Thursday 27th July and will be at the Lake Grace CRC from midday to 1:30pm to talk about what has been happening not just in Pingelly but in 19 other rural or remote communities across Australia.

Staying in Place is making it possible for older people to say living in their own home, in their own small rural and remote community until end of life – if possible. It is about local people delivering local services funded by home care packages.

With this 'locals supporting locals' approach, this model can deliver employment and economic opportunities with funds coming into and staying in the community; it also delivers social and health benefits.

Home Care Packages are structured from Levels 1 through to Level 4, determined by the needs of the individual. Currently the Lake Grace Hospital delivers Level 1 and 2; this new initiative would expand on that. Something that the Hospital would love to see happen.

Can you see a community managed home care service being good for the future of Lake Grace? Can you see yourself as a potential provider or contractor? Would you consider using the service as a package holder?

Please come along and listen to what Helen has to say about Pingelly's experience. After only eight months they now have 37 clients with the full value of the Commonwealth funds via the client's home care packages bringing $1.3M into their community annually.

Pingaring Set to Celebrate

Suzanne Reeves

Spare a thought for our early settlers who had little in the way of luxuries or mod cons to make life simpler, not just on the farm but also in the home.

Ross Murray has been busy refurbishing a Coolgardie Safe at the Lake Grace Community Men's Shed made by his uncle when they first settled in the Pingaring area in 1928. It was their only means of keeping food cool until they purchased their first fridge in 1948.

The Murray families Coolgardie Safe will be on display with other memorabilia at Pingaring when they hold their centenary celebrations over the weekend of the 8th -10th October. Pingaring's population is set to swell!

Pingaring Progress have organized a reprint of their book 'Pingaring Past and Present', which will be available for sale along with other merchandise over the weekend (remember to bring cash as eftpos won't be available).

The weekend starts on Friday evening with the unveiling of the map, a food van will be available.

On the 9th there will be bus tours, photo and memorabilia display a cricket match and the tennis courts will be available. Food trucks will be on hand to cater. Hayden McGlenn will be entertaining his home crowd that evening so everyone will be able to kick up their heels.

Right: Ross Murray with the families Coolgardie Safe that he has been refurbishing.

Sunday will be an opportunity to have a round of golf if you wish.

If you're wanting more information then follow the Pingaring Community Facebook page or give Jeni Wyatt a call on 0429 668 090.

Wildlife Corridors in the Wheatbelt

Richard Hobbs & Denis Saunders

Native vegetation in the Western Australian wheatbelt now persists mostly in small areas that remained uncleared for various reasons.

On their own, most of these remnant areas are difficult to manage, and too small to retain viable populations of many of the birds and other animals found in the wheatbelt. These patches of vegetation can be linked by wildlife corridors, which may increase the ability of the wildlife to move about and persist in the area.

A delicate balance

Without some action now, many species are liable to disappear. The main loss would be of our natural heritage. Every region would become a little poorer each time another species became extinct.

There are also other considerations, with more direct economic importance. Scientists and the community alike know little about the role of insect-eating birds, for example, in controlling agricultural pests and diseases. We do know, however, that the loss of insect-eating birds in New South Wales has resulted in an increase in problem insect pests that cause dieback in trees. The problems of insect pests damaging planted trees are well known in Western Australia.

The crux of the problem is to conserve what remains of our native vegetation and fauna in the wheatbelt. We need to manage the vegetation properly, and to create and maintain connections - or wildlife corridors - between these remnant areas, which allow birds, and possibly other animals, to move from remnant to remnant.

Animals often depend on a variety of vegetation types for food and shelter and need to be able to move between them. Birds that feed on insects and nectar need to move between different patches to find plants that flower at different times of the year. Some honeyeaters may fly many kilometres to reach small patches of banksias that are in flower when little else is.

Singing honeyeaters and willy wagtails can travel easily across open paddocks. Western yellow robins and some thornbills depend more on native vegetation and will only move within it.

Wide is best

The corridors between areas of remnant vegetation are therefore highly important. Today, these corridors are found mostly along roadsides and fencelines, and vary greatly in their usefulness to fauna. Wide road verges with vegetation in good condition support more species that depend on remnant vegetation than narrow verges with only a sparse vegetation cover.

Local shires have an important role in maintaining road verges in good condition. Safety to road users is a primary concern, but beyond that, management should involve as little disturbance to the verge as possible. Disturbance of the native vegetation canopy invariably leads to weed invasion, which in turn means costly management problems.

The best solution for wildlife and weed control is to leave the vegetation, especially the shrub layer, intact, and to avoid scraping away more of the vegetation each time a road is graded.

The existing set of linkages between remnant areas is, in most districts, incomplete. There is great scope for adding to the 'corridor network' by joining isolated areas of remnant vegetation.

Creation of wildlife corridors need not be a separate operation from other revegetation programmes. Careful design of revegetation for shelterbelts or for waterlogging and salinity control can mean that these tree belts will be beneficial to wildlife. Revegetation along creeklines can often join up remnant areas, as can the location of treed shelterbelts.

Guidelines

Existing guidelines for revegetation for wildlife corridors are only generalisations, because we do not know enough about how animals and birds use these corridors. However, here are a few guiding principles.

- The wider the vegetation corridor the better it is for encouraging the movement of animals and birds. Increasing a windbreak from three to five rows of trees and shrubs would be beneficial.

- It is best to join up remnant areas that are still in somewhat good condition and fairly large, for example 50 ha or more, unless there are important small areas such as patches of banksia.
- It is probably more effective to join up areas of remnant vegetation that are close together (for instance less than a kilometre apart) than those further apart.
- When revegetating land, trees alone are not enough; a mixture of shrub species should be used. Shrub species are often just as effective at helping to lower water-tables as are trees. They fill the gaps that form in shelterbelts as the trees grow taller. Shrubs also provide food and shelter for many birds.
- Corridors frequently cross many different soil types. Species used for revegetation should be chosen to suit the different soil types. The vegetation present in different localities gives an idea of which species will be suitable, and can also provide a useful source of seed.

Farmers creating wildlife corridors have been a great tool in the resurgence of the numbat population.

Gardening Tips

Sourced by Yates

Topic this month: Pruning

Tips for pruning

Choose the right tool for the job.

Always use clean and sharp tools. Make sure you have the right size tool for the size of branch you are pruning, this is so you avoid damaging the plant and tool. Its best to use a pruning saw on branches that are 4-6cm thick. Smaller pruners are best on smaller branches.

Choose the right time.

There's no real 'best time' for pruning but it is suggested that late winter is ideal because trees and shrubs are dormant and its easier to see what to prune. It also promotes fast and healthy regrowth for spring. Summer is the right time to remove dead branches, that's when they stand out.

Branches that are dead, damaged or diseased can be pruned straight away.

Make the right cuts.

Hold the upper cutting blade closer to the trunk (or main branch) for clean cut without tearing any bark away. Avoid leaving a stub, this is a potential starting point for pests and diseases.

Be safe when pruning.

- Make sure you have safely dressed. Long shirts and pants, gloves, safety glasses and enclosed shoes
- A nice wide brimmed hat for sun safety. (make sure you can still see where you are pruning)
- Keep tools sharp and clean
- Choose a nice clear, dry day for pruning

Tools for pruning.

A good quality pair of secateurs is important. A tip for not losing your tools in the garden, wrap some bright and colourful tape around the handles. Makes them easier to find in dirt or leaves. Keep your blades sharp and well oiled for prolonged use. Don't forget to get some strong gloves for when your pruning your rose bushes!

Benefits of pruning.

- Preservation of the plant
- Encourage growth
- Thin out a canopy to allow a breeze or air movement through the branches
- To form plants into special shapes
- Encourage branching

Pruning aftercare.

After pruning, most plants would benefit from a good feed from a soil improver and plant fertiliser. Helps encourage better root growth, stronger plants and better fruit and flowers as it releases nutrients slowly and improves the structure and retention of the soil.

Want to start pruning? Don't have the right tools? Need some fertiliser? Head down to CCL Hardware and they will happily help with any supplies you need.

10 Questions with...

What is your name? Kelly Callope

What do you do for a living? Sales Support Office at Elders –

I basically help and look after everyone

What's your favourite thing about Lake Grace?

Lake Grace is FAMILY – The Lake Grace community is like one HUGE family. There are long distant relatives that you don't see a lot of around but when you do you always exchange pleasantries. Then you have the "aunts, uncles and cousins", family members you don't necessarily "get along" with and barely speak to and then you have your very close family and no matter what, when anybody is in need and requires any help, we all come together in the end

Who's your favourite actor? I have so many, so if I have to choose 1 I would have to say Ryan Reynolds, especially in Deadpool

What do you do to relax? SLEEP hahaha - I do LOVE the coast and walking along the beaches, that's when I can get there

Do you prefer winter or summer? And why? BOTH – I like winter in summer and summer in winter

If you could go anywhere in the world, where would it be? Definitely ITALY, the small villages of Italy

What's your favourite food? It would have to be cheese (but not blue cheese YUK!) and Nachos are my favourite

If you could choose anyone famous to narrate your life, who would you choose? Hands down, Morgan Freeman! He has the BEST voice and he would totally make my life sound more interesting – hahahaha

What annoys you the most? 100% LIARS & FAKES

Vegan, Vegetarian, Pescatarian & Everything Else .... What's The Diff?

Yeahboy.com.au

As human beings, we are pretty blessed to be able to select the foods we consume. With plant-based diets on the rise, there has been an ever-growing development of titles that cater for certain diets – and understandably, this can be quite confusing at times!

Vegan

Being vegan, or plant-based, means you don't consume ANY meats or products that come from animals – this includes fish! Vegans don't consume dairy products (standard ice creams, yoghurts, cheeses), eggs and honey. Hence, if living a plant-based lifestyle, it's important to check the ingredients in baked goods, smoothies and sweets (so that dairy or eggs aren't accidentally consumed!).

Vegetarian

Vegetarians do not consume meat or fish. They still however eat dairy products, eggs and honey!

Pescatarian

Pescatarians are like vegetarians, except they DO eat fish. Hence, they essentially don't eat meat from land-animals.

Paleotarian

More commonly known as a Paleo diet, this consists of fresh fruits, vegetables and lean meats only. They do not consume gluten, grains, legumes, dairy, starchy vegetables (like potatoes), excessive carbs and processed foods.

Ketogenic

The Keto lifestyle is essentially known as the "low carb" diet, which aims to cut back the calories from sugar, soft drinks, pastries and white bread. The idea is to consume 20-50g of carbs per day, and obtain protein from wholesome products such as seafood, non-starchy vegetables (like kale & broccoli), cheese, avocados, lean meats & poultry!

Flexitarian

A flexitarian diet encourages a plant-based diet, however, it permits you to eat animal products (like meat, eggs and dairy) in moderation. It's pretty much the 'flexible' version of a vegetarian or vegan diet.

Fruitarian

This one is pretty self explanatory – it's a diet where people only eat fruit. However, some fruitarians consume seeds (and occasional nuts) to get that extra protein.

Macrobiotic

According to Medical author Melissa Conrad Stoppler, "macrobiotic diets combine the concepts of Buddhist spirituality and certain dietary principles with the goal of balancing spiritual and physical wellness. Macrobiotic diets aim to avoid the "toxins" that come from eating dairy products, meats, and oily foods. A macrobiotic diet consists largely of whole grains, cereals, and cooked vegetables."

Stoppler also states that "A macrobiotic diet also recommends consumption of locally-grown produce and avoidance of fruits that do not grow locally, such as bananas, pineapples and other tropical fruits."

Beegan

It's actually the exact same as veganism, except you are allowed to eat honey! This was allegedly derived from a movement to promote beekeepers (because roughly 33% of food we consume relies on the pollination process!).

Raw Foodie

The raw food diet (aka raw foodism & raw veganism) is a diet whereby consumers eat mostly, or completely raw and unprocessed foods. Like veganism, the raw food diet is generally plant-based; consisting of fruits, vegetables, nuts and seeds. Some people also consume raw eggs, dairy, raw fish and sometimes raw meat!

Book Review: Handbook of Joinery—Time Life Books

Suzanne Reeves

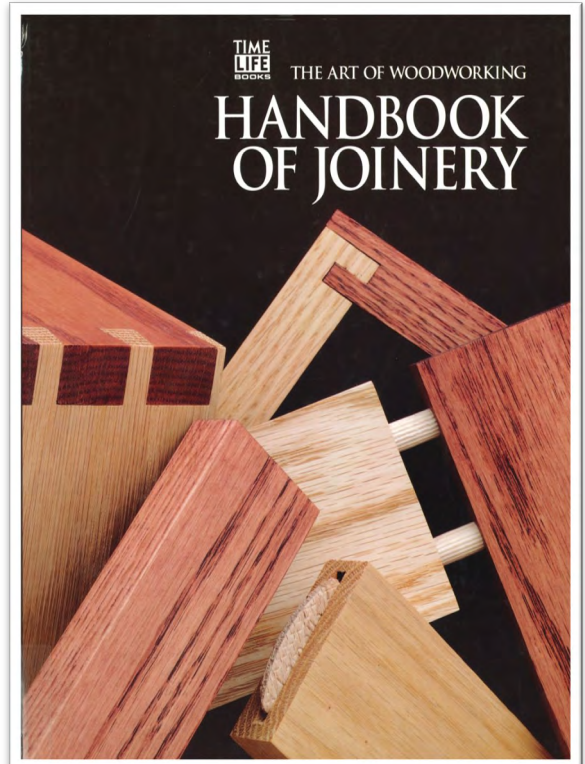

The book review section shouldn't just be about fiction, we do realise that those non fiction enthusiasts need to be thought about occasionally too....sadly though when you have your nose in a good novel everything else can be forgotten about.

This book is 30 years old, but lets face it I'm sure the joinery basics are still the same though there might be some new fangled ideas that have come into the mix.

There's some interesting terms in this book; now I've heard of miter joints but butt joints?? There's not just one butt joint, there a whole catalogue of them. Don't get me started on lap, rabbet, groove and dado joints. There's even a blind dado joint.

Of course everyone would have heard of tongue and groove joints as well as mortise-and-tenon joints; but it's one thing hearing about them but this book tells you HOW to make them. It goes into great detail, telling you what tools you will need and has some great images to help you through the process.

If you're making your way into the woodworking world and are wanting to delve into joinery then drop into the Lake Grace Library and borrow this book. No internet connection is necessary.

STATION NEWS

Last week our Inspector from Albany popped in to speak with us, ensuring that the Station is well prepared going into the new financial year. We also discussed the upcoming Newdegate Field days and resources required to Police the event.

Scott and Wade played in the Lake Grace Golf Club Turkey day tournament, it would appear that they have a lot of practice ahead of them, as they took the Feathers prize (they finished last), fair to say they won't be retiring from the day job anytime soon. Either way it was an amazing day out. We will do our best to ensure that we are available to take part next year and hopefully improve our current standing...

TRAFFIC NEWS

Recently we stopped a vehicle travelling at 119kph in a 60kph speed zone in Newdegate. This was very disappointing to see, given we were still in school holidays and the possibility of children walking the streets is heightened around these times.

As a result, the driver was summonsed for reckless driving and his car went on a little holiday for 28 days, it was impounded and sent away on the back of a tow truck.

We were advised of a truck roll over near Corrigin resulting in a fair bit of grain on the road. Thankfully both Sergeants from Kondinin and Corrigin were able to handle the matter without us being required.

CRIME NEWS

A few months ago, a firearm was handed in at the Police Station front counter. The firearm did not belong to the person handing it in, it had been left at their address when the owner of the firearm moved away.

We soon tracked down the owner who was subsequently charged with 1 x Fail to provide and use adequate storage facilities to ensure firearm and ammunition safety, and 1 x Licence holder failed to provide written notice of change of storage arrangements.

On top of the two charges the owner will also be losing their right to own a firearm, as Firearms & Licensing have deemed that they are no longer fit to hold a firearm license.

The owner will now have to sell or ask for the firearm to be destroyed given his irresponsible actions. This should be a reminder to ensure, that if you are a firearms holder, that you maintain safe storage of these items at all times.

A recent theft, of a significant amount of copper cable has been reported to us, if you notice any unusual activity or dodgy vehicles driving around, please let us know as soon as you can, if you can obtain a number plate it may help us greatly.

Take care and stay safe.

A Thousand Miles of Nothing—Part One

<https://www.facebook.com/StateLibraryWA>

This remarkable account is based on the papers of Eileen Lanagan and takes place in 1940 on the Canning Stock Route. We acknowledge that the route has a difficult past and was the scene for a series of dangerous and tragic confrontations between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people. We pay our respects to the traditional owners whose life, lore (law) and ecology was impacted by this droving road.

I was the pivot of many curious dark eyes as I made my tour of Billiluna Station in 1940. Very few white women had ever been seen out there.

The homestead was one-roomed and made of desert oak logs. It had no windows and the closest neighbour was 140 miles away. For many years it had been home to a solitary white man, Dick Rowan, who had left it only to die.

My husband George (the Boss) had been a drover most of his life and one of only four that could be trusted with cattle on the Canning Stock Route. We had been married only a year and I had pleaded to come with him on the thousand-mile ride from Billiluna to Carnegie Station.

There were fifteen of us all told, riding together down that long invisible road through nowhere with a mob of 800 cattle. Riding right out of my little world.

Among us were East Kimberley lads - Captain, Koonari, Baroo, Chinaman, Slippery, Skipper, Mick, Brophy, and Wypoo. All tall and lithe, they were fine horsemen and well-dressed in the moleskin trousers, elastic-sided boots, and Bluey overcoats provided.

We had 56 horses and 12 camels to carry us through. Ten of the camels were loaded with stores and two running spare. The stores were our life for four months and included such things as apricots, Worcester sauce, and honey. As well as matches, hats, pipes, and a general muster of sundry needs.

In the medicine chest were only iodine, Flavine, bandages, spirits of nitre, and Condy's crystals. We trusted in God and good luck that no accidents would happen.

We didn't have, nor needed a map. Heaven help the stranger who tries to cross the Canning by a map. It is a track for only the toughest bush drovers with first-hand knowledge of those wind blown wastes and mazes of high sand hills.

There were 52 wells along our route and unless you knew where they were, you'd never find them. My husband spent twenty years learning the Canning.

Travelling on Billiluna station country with the manager, George Williams, the flies were dreadful. There is a waterhole on Billiluna that the Aboriginal people say all the flies in the world come from, and I believe them.

My husband gave me Nully to ride, a homely and hardy stock horse who carried me fairly and faithfully all the way over the sand hills and spinifex.

We reached Billiluna Pool, a beautiful permanent water pool and the scene of night long dancing and campfires during corroboree time.

Then, eleven miles on in the Never Never, we yarned under the stars in a cathedral of gum trees. Interrupted only by the occasional lowing of the bullocks and the chime of a camel bell.

The next night we were on the rim of Gregory's Salt Sea, a vast and melancholy salt lake. We brought out our little short-wave radio and listened to oriental jazz from the Philippines.

The mob took form and on we went at a patient pace. Captain riding ahead, the Boss behind, the ringers on wing and flank. Resting only to feed and sleep at night. Feeling the stiffness from long riding, I was thankful at night for the light mattress in my swag.

For the cost of a bag of flour, my husband had bought me a blue heeler pup, Tim, for company. He was my shadow day and night. With one ear cocked, he also gave a splendid 24-hour service as a watchman, never soundly sleeping - but nobody ever sleeps soundly on the Canning.

At the edge of Billiluna station, George Williams made his final count of the cattle and the Boss signed papers and took formal delivery. Then after a last friendly billy of tea and a handshake, George and his boys left us to the silence.

We were out on the Canning in dead earnest, and for the next four months this quiet world was ours.

There was a grave at the next well - No. 49 - a mound of red earth with a post and rail to guard it from the cattle. Jack Smith had died in my husband's droving camp the year before. He had been ill when he started and did not get far.

It was the first grave of many we would see. The lonely dead of the Australian bush are not good company. They are too life-like when there is nothing else human in the scene.

The Myalls (Aboriginal people living in the traditional way) followed us from No. 50 well. It was remarkable to see how swiftly they could cross a landscape, walking. One little girl of five or so, wearing only a loin cloth, paced it out in the cold wind, keeping well up with the others.

The men strode along carrying only spears. The women were laden with big bundles of odds and ends balanced on their heads, some with a baby or two clinging to them. One very old blind woman they led on the end of a spear.

We gave them bread and jam, and when we camped at sundown they laughed shrilly at our singing box, and were most attentive and intelligent in their musical appreciation.

The next morning Baroo, one of our best ringers, was thrown from his horse. He split his head and injured his ribs, both of which I well and tightly bandaged. But the patient was very sorry for himself until a traditional healer of the Myalls came over and offered to attend him. After that he got decidedly better.

Seven miles on and the Boss presented me with my first revolver and instructions on how and when to use it if necessary. I certainly hoped there would be no need.

Hi there, here we are again, halfway through July 2023 and halfway through Winter 2023. I for one wonder whether the reports on global warming are true and correct. As, I for one (and there are a lot of others passing their opinion on it) will comment on the weather. "Bloody cold, isn't it?" especially with global warming.

But I know a way of forgetting how cold it is, read some good news stories and share some funnies with others. See if it works for you-Read on...

Local Dog Finds Over 150 Golf Discs, Raises Money For Shelter and Park

A local dog in Moundsville, West Virginia, has captured the attention and admiration of the community by single-handedly finding over 150 lost golf discs at a popular park.

Unclaimed discs will be on sale, with proceeds going to the park.

Daisy is a four-year-old Labrador Retriever who loves going on walks with her owner Kelly Mason, at Grand Vue Park.

Every day, they walk about five miles through the park. Sometimes, Daisy goes on her own adventure and returns with a souvenir.

"Daisy, my yellow Labrador Retriever, has a nose for finding discs," Mason said. "We will be walking through the park and her nose will go up. She can smell 'em and she just goes off. She could go off 30 yards through the multiflora, the high weeds. And here she comes with a disc."

Since she found her first disc about three years ago, Daisy has retrieved 155 of them with no plans of stopping anytime soon.

The park recently teamed up with Mason to create a program called "Daisy's Discs".

"Normally when park staff find them or when our park guests find them, all of them are turned into the barn area", says Ben Bolock, the assistant general manager at Grand Vue Park. "Some discs that have names on them, we call them, and people are able to come and pick them up. During that time, they can make a donation to Daisy's Discs and that money will fund the Marshall County Animal Rescue League. If discs are found and there's no name on them and we've had for a long period of time, and nobody has claimed them, the park will sell them for a very low amount and that money will go back into the disc golf course."

Paramedics Take Dying Woman On Final Trip To The Beach

Two paramedics in Wauchope, Australia, went above and beyond their call of duty to fulfill the last wish of a palliative care patient.

Paramedics Dave Moran and Ray Smythe picked up 85 year old Mavis from her home this week and planned to drop her straight off at a palliative care unit. But when she started talking about meeting her husband of 65 years at the beach and how it was 'the happiest moment of her life', they decided to take a detour.

"She mentioned her and Ron had met Clovelly Beach, and Dave piped up from the front seat and said 'do you want to go to the beach?'" So, Dave and Ray drove to Flynn's Beach in Port Macquarie, where they pulled the stretcher out and the trio sat gazing out over the ocean, spotting a passing whale.

They stayed at the beach for about half an hour before heading to the palliative care unit.

"She grabbed my hand once back in the van and kept thanking us. We really gelled with her", Ray said.

Mavis passed away the next day.

"That was a shock to us", Ray said, "But she told us in the car she was ready to go."

The pair said it was a 'humbling experience' to have given Mavis the peaceful send-off she wanted.

"Her last journey was a lovely one. She could enjoy the

Korean Businessman Gives $70,000 To Each Household In His Hometown

A Korean businessman has gifted over $70,000 to every household in his hometown of Unpyeong-ri, a village in South Jeolla.

Lee Joong-keun, the 82-year-old founder of property developer Booyoung Group, said he wanted to express his ‘thanks to the support of villagers’.

All 280 households in Unpyeong-ri were wired cash, ranging from a minimum 26 million won to a maximum 90.2 million won after tax deduction. The amount varied depending on the number of years the householders resided in the village.

“The chairman didn’t intend for this to be publicly disclosed. His sole purpose was to express gratitude to those who have preserved his hometown throughout the years”, said Booyoung Group. Lee also donated gifts, books and other items worth a total 240 billion won to his hometown.

The Booyoung chairman came from humble beginnings. He was born in 1941 to a poor family in Unpyeong-ri. He eventually moved to Seoul and dropped out of Konkuk University due to financial difficulties.

In 1972, he founded the Woojin Construction Co. and in 1976 Samjin Engineering, which eventually became today’s Booyoung Group.

Today, he has a net worth of nearly 20 trillion won.

Now that we made you feel better, lets keep you there with a couple of funnies...

A Blonde Attempts A Jigsaw Puzzle

A blonde calls her boyfriend and says “Please come over here and help me. I have a killer jigsaw puzzle and I cant figure out how to get started”.

Her boyfriend asks “What is it supposed to be when its finished?”

The blonde says “According to the picture on the box, it’s a rooster”

Her boyfriend decides to go over and help with the puzzle.

She lets him in and shows him where she has the puzzle spread all over the table.

He studies the pieces for a moment, then looks at the box, then turns to her and says,

“First of all, no matter what we do we’re not going to be able to assemble these pieces into anything resembling a rooster”

He then takes her hand and says “Secondly, I want you to relax. Let’s have a nice cup of tea and then,”...he said with a deep sigh...

“Let’s put all these Corn Flakes back in the box”

Mom Is Startled When Her Son Does Math Problems

Henry was doing math homework, saying to himself...

“2+5, the son of a b*tch is 7”

“3+6, the son of a b*tch is 9”

His mother heard this and asked, “Henry! What is this nonsense you are doing?”

“Oh, Mom I am just doing my math homework!”

Mom: “is this how your teacher taught you?”

Henry: “yes Mom”

Infuriated, she picks up her phone and calls the teacher.

Mom: “Are you teaching math to the children by saying... 2+2, the son of a b*tch is 4?”

There was silence for a moment. Then the teacher started laughing.

Teacher: “What I taught them was... 2+2 THE SUM OF WHICH IS 4”

Recycling Services

Household Waste Collection is a weekly service and collected each Tuesday for Lake Grace, Newdegate, Lake King & Varley.

Recycling is a fortnightly service and alternates between Lake Grace and Newdegate. See below for the upcoming recycling collection dates.

Lake Grace	Newdegate
Tuesday 1 August	Tuesday 25 July
Tuesday 15 August	Tuesday 8 August

Please Note: There is no kerbside recycling collection service in Lake King or Varley.

The recycling bins are collected by Warren Blackwood Waste and transported to a recycling facility. If items which are not recyclable are found the content can't be recycled and the load will be directed to the landfill.

If an item is covered in food, it is not recyclable. Food is one of the worst contaminants in the recycling process. By using the yellow top recycling bin correctly you are contributing, in a combined community effort, to reduce the amount of rubbish that is directed to landfill facilities each year.

For more information on Waste Management visit the Shire's website www.lakegrace.wa.gov.au.

FLEET LICENSING

Did you know that if you or your company have 10 or more vehicles you can have them added to a Fleet Schedule which will allow you to have a common expiry date for all their renewals.

You will receive 1 renewal notice for all the vehicles and still have the option to pay for 3, 6, or 12 months registration.

To apply, you will need to complete an Application for Fleet Licensing (E72) form. This requires you to nominate your preferred common expiry date and to list all the vehicles you wish to be on the schedule. This will need to be sent to the Fleet Licensing Team—fleetlicensing@transport.wa.gov.au

Once your application has been processed you will be sent a letter advising you of your fleet licensing code, as well as individual tax invoices for vehicles that need to be re-aligned to the common expiry date.

Fleet management is accessible through the DoTDirect online portal and has a number of features including: -

- Automatic email reminders of fleet schedules due for renewal
- Adjust eligible vehicle expiry date to that of the common fleet expiry date
- Remove and add vehicles
- Re-print outstanding fleet schedules

More information can be found on the Department of Transport website—Fleet Licensing.

ANNUAL LICENCE EXPIRY DATE (Common Expiry Date).

Alternatively, if you have 3—9 vehicles in your name you can apply for a common licence expiry date. This differs from Fleet Licensing as renewals are still sent individually.

You do not need to make a formal application, instead when the vehicle becomes due for renewal simply attend a DVS centre or regional agent and request to licence to the date of your choice. Once all of the vehicles are brought into line with this date you will continue to receive vehicle licence renewals six weeks prior to the expiry date.

You would be forgiven for thinking that most of our visitors would be in the over 65 bracket, however 37% of those recorded were in the 46-65 age group. Surprisingly (for me anyway), 15% were under 18, 16% were 31-45, 24% were over 65 and 8% were in the 18-30 year age group.

There was a very even spread of visiting days (ranging from 11% to 17%), the most popular day being Thursday. Fifty percent of travellers are moving by car (staying in accommodation) while 42% are towing their caravan or camper.

Over the last eight years there has been a steady growth in visitor numbers to the Shire of Lake Grace annually, this year we have topped every record since opening (over 3,500 through the doors). This is an economic boost to our region as these visitors spend money; whether it be on food, fuel, accommodation or gifts and other items that remind them of their visit to Lake Grace.

Opening weekends and adding a casual staff member has proven to be beneficial. Having the centre open along with cafes, IGA and Hotel has provided a very welcoming atmosphere to the town. Feedback is incredibly positive from our visitors; as they comment on the warm welcome that they receive from the locals, the great array of businesses and facilities as well as how neat and tidy everything is.

Don't think the Visitor Centre isn't for the locals, they have some excellent giftware and can fill you in on some local attractions that you can keep in mind when you have family or friends visiting.

The Visitor Centre shall reassess extending opening hours according to demand on the weekends when the wildflower season begins. If you haven't dropped into the centre please do so; hours are 9-5 during the week and 9-1 on the weekend.

Lake Grace-Pingrup Football Notes

Saturday 15th July Jerramungup v LGP

LEAGUE

Lake Grace Pingrup headed to Jerramungup to take on the Eagles. Jerry were celebrating their 60, 40, 30 & 10 year premiership reunions and ready to put on a good show in front of their past players. The Bombers were made to work hard from the start. Holmes, O'Neill & Bairstow had their hands full with Jayden Brooks giving plenty of forward knocks and stoppages to a hard forward running Brendan Lee and the Bombers had to win the ball back to get forward movement. Alex Duckworth and Sammy Bertola played pivotal roles in the backline to rebound the ball. Half time gave the players a much needed break to rest up and get ready for the second half. The third quarter proved to be the Eagles best as they got their game going and the Bombers seemed to be trailing around the ground. Some inspiring words from Coach Holmes at 3 quarter time got the Bombers back on track and they ran out the game much better to record a convincing win in near perfect conditions.

Well done to all our players who made their way to Country Week and represented the OFA in both Seniors and Colts. Always great to see a strong contingent of Lake Grace Pingrup players involved. Also to Tyson Prater and Brenden Desmond for coaching and managing the Regional Colts team this year.

Special mention to Luke Bairstow who has once again been picked in the WA Country team. The club is extremely proud of your well-deserved selection.

Best Players: Konnah Holmes, Mitch O'Neill, Luke Bairstow, Sammy Bertola

Goals: Jackson Callope 4, Mitch O'Neill 2, Hamish Ryan 1, Luke Bairstow 1, Tyson Prater 1, Mitch Smith 1

Lake Grace/Pingrup 10.8 (68) defeated Jerramungup 4.7(31)
JER	1.1 (7)	1.1 (7)	3.4 (22)	4.7 (31)
LGP	4.1 (25)	6.3 (39)	7.4 (46)	10.8 (68)

B GRADE

The B grade side started the day by kicking the frost off the oval. Great to have the school kids home again for another weekend. Jerry proved too strong in the previous outing with a much more experienced side. This week however, the Bombers welcomed back some experienced players in Reece Walton, Ryan Baker, Brady Carruthers, Ben Watson and Trivan Davey to bolster the team from the last game against the Eagles. These players along with the ever developing brigade home from school, showed some class and skill as they moved the ball around the ground in a very dominant performance over 4 quarters. The game style adopted in the league side is filtering through into the B grade and Coach Jack Carruthers has the players adopting this really well. Well done to Ben Watson who played his first game of football in 9 weeks after tearing a hamstring. He got through unscathed and with a strong performance, he, along with a few others will add some headaches at the selection table for an A grade berth.

Best Players: Ryan Baker, Trivan Davey, Reece Walton

Goals: Not Provided

Lake Grace/Pingrup 10.16 (76) defeated Jerramungup 4.3 (27)
JER	0.2 (2)	3.3 (21)	3.3 (21)	4.3 (27)
LGP	3.5 (23)	4.8 (32)	8.11 (59)	10.16 (76)

Jerramungup v LGP

First game of the last round played indoors at Jerramungup. Every one was feeling really good going into this game and played a really positive game. It was a fast and physical game. We had a lot of the play the only difference being a few costly turnovers off our hands.

Each quarter only being a few goals difference on the scoreboard. The last half we closed the gap and outscored Jerry in the last quarter of the game, a great effort girls.

Welcome back to the club to Grace Townsend who played a great game in defence .Keep working together as a team girls and put in the hard work at this end of the season.

FINAL SCORE: JERRY 56 - LGP 51

BEST ON GROUND:CHLOE MCDUGALL played a great game, strong hands in rebounds, great holding in the circle

2ND BEST ON GROUND:LAUREN DUCKWORTH ran all game at centre trying to get the team over the line.

COACHES AWARD:GRACE TOWNSEND first game back for the club played a hard defending game, kept pressure on opposition shooters.

Lets all make an effort to get to trainings ready to play Newdegate at home after the bye

Jerramungup v LGP

Round 3, with only 4 games to go before finals. We braved the frosty morning and drove to Jerramungup.

We knew it was going to be a tough game with both teams playing strongly.

0 all at half time. Then kids played smarter and using their team mates and rewarding us with a hard fought goal and a reverse hit in by Kyal. Next goal amazing team play down the field and Tyler getting a awesome goal off a short corner. Jerramungup fought back hard scoring a goal. (Our first goal scored against us all year) the bombers didn't let that frazzle them , more team play and Bella charging down the field to make the final score 3-1

Well done team

Best on ground Dakota

2nd Best Kyal and Paige

Lake Grace Golf Notes

Mark Livall

Saturday 8th July

On Saturday the 8th we played our famous event for year Turkey day sponsored by the Taylor family. We had a great turn out with 24 golfers hitting off on a perfect day for golf, we also welcomed a few new faces to the course and some old faithfuls coming back to have a crack for the prestigious prize. It was also great to see some ladies back in the mix this year. With the course in perfect condition with no breeze and fine weather there was no excuses for some big scores.

Winners for the day and securing back to back were Mark Livall and Grant O'Neill with 42 points. Close in 2nd place were club stalwarts Chad Stanton and Nick Maalouf with 41 points. Winners for the visitors and great to see them coming back every year, were Andy Young and Nathan Young with 38 points. The feathers went to the local law enforcement boys Scott Oatridge and Wade Humphrey in what was an unlucky count back situation with 2 teams on 34 points. Bad luck boys! We hope you enjoy your new hats!

Many thanks must go to everyone who made a salad and helped out in the kitchen. Also to everyone who helped out getting the club house and course ready for the day.

First LACHs Appointed Under New ACH Laws

Three Native Title organisations have been appointed as a Local Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Service – or LACHS – under the State's new Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Act 2021.

The first three LACHS were approved by the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Council and will now take on a regulatory role to protect and advise on Aboriginal cultural heritage and help negotiate and facilitate agreement-making on land-use proposals.

Aboriginal Affairs Minister Dr Tony Buti outlined the appointment of the LACHS at the opening of the first meeting of the implementation group – a team of key stakeholders who will share information on common and emerging issues, and solutions with the Department of Planning, Lands and Heritage in the first six months of operation of the new Act and Regulations.

Dr Buti welcomed the three initial LACHS and acknowledged the important role each organisation will play within their respective native title areas.

The three LACHS include:

- Yindjibarndi Ngurra Aboriginal Corporation has a strong history of collaboration with land users, including negotiating and developing heritage management plans, and will be the 'go-to' organisation for Aboriginal cultural heritage matters relating to the land and waters of the Pilbara region that fall within their determination area.
- Karajarri Traditional Lands Association will provide a LACHS role for Karajarri Country, which extends from Eighty Mile Beach to just south of Broome's Roebuck Bay, including some 32,000kms of land and waterways. The Association has extensive experience working with pastoralists, mining companies and Government agencies to protect and manage cultural sites in the area, undertake surveys and negotiate economic opportunities for the Karajarri people.
- The third organisation, which recently commenced Sorry Business following the passing of a significant elder, is also based in the Pilbara region and has extensive experience advising and negotiating on Aboriginal cultural heritage matters.

Each organisation will receive a $200,000 grant to build capacity, recruit or upskill staff – part of a $87 million State budget commitment to Aboriginal cultural heritage.

They will also receive up to $300,000 each year to help meet the anticipated service level requirements from proponents, Traditional Owners, Aboriginal communities and other individuals.

While the LACHS are being established, or where there is no LACHS in place, the new Act guides proponents to engage the relevant native title group, which will be the relevant prescribed body corporate, registered claimants or native title representative bodies such as the relevant land council – just as they have done for many years. The Department is well equipped to help proponents identify the relevant native title group if necessary.

Australian Aboriginal culture is one of the world's oldest continuing cultures dating back at least 60,000 years. Cultural heritage is central to the health and vitality of Aboriginal communities – it provides an essential link to their past, present and future, and it must be appropriately recognised, managed and protected.

Find out more about the new Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Act 2021 at wa.gov.au/ach-act.

Sudoku

- The Sudoku grid of rows and columns is divided into individual 3x3 boxes.
- The aim of the game is to fill each row, column and 3x3 box with the numbers 1 to 9.
- You can't repeat numbers in a row, column or 3x3 box and you can't change the numbers already in squares.
